GUIDELINES FOR LINKING TO DECV OLYMPIC WEBSITE

1. Website

You are only authorized to provide a link to the DECV website from a website wholly owned and controlled by you or your authorized agent which is approved in writing by the DECV ("your website"). Should the internet address, ownership or control of your website change subsequent to the DECV giving its approval, you must advice he DECV of the change immediately.

2. Security

You must maintain hardware and software security measures on your website infrastructure and architecture in order to manage and prevent the downloading, storage and transmission of computer viruses, spyware, adware and other disruptive code and to prevent spam activity, on or from your website. In particular, you must maintain effective firewall protection and server security controls.

3. Content

The appearance of the DECV on your website may suggest that the DECV approves of the content and materials on your website. Accordingly you must ensure that you do not represent or suggest in any way that the DECV has approved of or endorsed your website and its content. You must also ensure that the content and material displayed on or accessed via your website maintains the integrity of the DECV and does noting to bring into disrepute or censure the DECV, its officers, agents or employees or the DECV in general.

The content of your website must at all times comply with accepted standards of public decency and good taste and must not contain materials that are unlawful, defamatory, pornographic or offensive.

4. Advertising

Subject to the terms of any specific sponsorship agreement with the DECV, the DECV logo must not be attached to or be displayed in juxtaposition to any other emblem, logo, advertising or material that appears on your website. In particular, the DECV logo must not be displayed in such a manner that would or could suggest that the DECV has an association or affiliation with or endorses any commercial advertising or activity appearing on your website.

You must ensure that no pop-up advertising is attached to your website to the link from your website to the DECV’s website.
5. Access

You must regularly monitor the link from your website to the DECV’s website to ensure that the link is fully functional at all times.

Should the link from your website to the DECV’s website fail, you must remove the Link/Logo from your website and only replace the Link/Logo when the link from your website to the DECV’s website has been repaired. The DECV will Endeavour to promptly advise you of any change to the internet address of the DECV’s website, but is not obliged so to do.

6. Intellectual Property Rights

The materials on the DECV website is protected by copyright and you must not copy, frame, modify, transmit or distribute any material from the DECV website without the prior written approval of the DECV.

7. Monitoring

To assist the DECV with monitoring, you must advise the DECV of the internet address of each page on your website on which the DECV appears. You must promptly advise the DECV of any changes to these internet addresses.

8. Indemnity and Liability

You will indemnify and keep indemnified the DECV from and against all claims, demands, actions, proceedings, costs and expenses (including legal costs calculated on a solicitor and client basis) and liability to third parties arising out of or incidental to your use of the DECV and the content of your website.

To the fullest extent permitted by law, you waive, release and discharge the DECV from any liability it may have to you arising out of or in connection with your use of the DECV or your linkage to the DECV website including but not limited to liability for loss of profits, loss of revenue or loss of data.

9. Termination

The DECV may withdraw its approval at any time whether or not you breached these guidelines. The DECV will give you a written notice of any such action and you must then immediately cease using the DECV, delete all copies of the DECV in your possession or under your control and remove the link from your website to the DECV’s website.
10. Guidelines

The DECV reserves the right to alter, modify or amend these guidelines at any time. Should it do so, it will endeavor to notify you of such change, however, it is your responsibility to check with the DECV from time to time to ensure you are aware of and comply with any changes made.

These guidelines supersede and override any representation or understanding (whether oral or written) made to you in relation to the DECV approval and overrides any terms or conditions contained on your website.

The DECV take no responsibility and are not liable if this material is accessed and used through unauthorized parties.

The DECV has also received permission from the AOC’s management in relation to using some of their material.

11. Governing Law

These guidelines and the DECV approval are governed by the laws of Victoria.

If you are signing on behalf of a company, your signature below indicates that you are authorized to sign on behalf of that company.

I accept and agree to the above guidelines

----------------------------------------

Print Name: _________________________

Date: __________